

Stress Management and Burnout:

The impact on Teachers and Educators and the use of Mindfulness Strategies

Cruising the South Pacific departing Sydney

25 SEP - 05 OCT 2025

SYNOPSIS

Both stress and burnout impact Teachers and Educators. This conference explores the key issues surrounding stress and burnout. It provides a Mindfulness workshop to enhance Teachers' and Educators' ability to manage stress and explore strategies to enhance their emotional well-being in their personal and professional lives.

Stress should be viewed as a process rather than a definitive diagnosis. It occurs when there is an issue between the demands placed upon us and our ability to handle them. How intensely and extensively stress affects an individual largely hinges on their perspective towards a given situation.

Burnout is a work-related stress syndrome resulting from chronic exposure to job stress. Psychoanalyst Freudenberger introduced the term in the early 1970s and subsequently defined it by Maslach et al. as consisting of three qualitative dimensions: emotional exhaustion, cynicism and depersonalisation, reduced professional efficacy, and personal accomplishment.

Mindfulness is more than a strategy to manage difficult situations. It is a way to cultivate a more balanced relationship with oneself in relation to the realities of life. Mindfulness can better be understood as a way of being and living rather than a tactic or strategy for life.

By providing the opportunity to devote attention to the processes that underlie mindfulness and explore scientific findings related to mindfulness, this training is different from other programs in many respects and provides attendees with the tools to enhance their well-being.

1400 – 1500: Understanding Stress Burnout

Stress should be viewed as a process rather than a definitive diagnosis. It occurs when there is an issue between the demands placed upon us and our ability to handle those demands.

How intensely and extensively stress affects an individual largely hinges on their perspective towards a given situation. An occurrence that might induce significant stress in one person could be a minor obstacle for someone else.

1500 – 1530: Break

1530 – 1630: Your Belief System

This session will explore how our belief system impacts our response to situations. What we think impacts how we feel which leads to how we behave. Humans are complex creatures!

Help individuals gain insights into their own behaviours, preferences, strengths, and weaknesses. This self-awareness can guide personal growth and development. Let's explore.

DAY 3 Continued: 29/09/2025 | Conference Day

0900 – 1000: The Results of Unmanaged Stress: Depression, Anxiety, and the Risk of Suicide

Suicide is complex and there is no single reason why a person takes their own life. Research identifies that a person with depression, an anxiety disorder, or substance abuse disorder are at greater risk of suicide.

Suicide and attempted suicide are a major cause of preventable deaths and a significant health issue for our society. We will explore these conditions and how you can help a person who is considering taking their own life.

1000 – 1030: Break

1030 – 1130: Gut Health

The gut is our second brain, and there is mounting evidence to support the importance of gut health on our emotional and physical wellbeing. This session will explore the latest information on gut health.

1130 – 1230: Mindfulness Attention and the Now

The training of attention is essential in mindfulness. Mindfulness teaches us to focus the attention on what is happening in this moment, the now. Although this sounds easy, it seems that we often just do not live in the moment and instead, focus our attention on our thoughts or the content of our thoughts.

- MP3s and Videos: Meditation Practice

1130 – 1300: Lunch

1300 – 1400: The Issue with Automatic Behaviour

Automatism involves a behaviour occurring outside of conscious awareness, that is, when we are not consciously aware of our own behaviour. Although it may be difficult to imagine, some researchers believe that 90% of our behaviour is carried out automatically. Automatic patterns are not limited to behaviour, like driving a car or playing the piano.

Thought patterns or coping with setbacks or stress can also become automatic. Although in some cases, automatic behaviour is very useful, it can also cause serious problems.

1400 – 1500: Judgement

Judgments operate like a lens, and we see the world through the lens of our judgment. When we judge something, we're colouring reality. We're wearing a lens, we see reality through a lens of our judgment, and our beliefs shape the colour of the lens. In other words, the judgments that we make have a strong effect on how we feel.

1500 – 1530: Break

1530 – 1630: Acceptance

Acceptance plays an important role in mindfulness. Rather than trying to avoid or control an experience, mindfulness involves allowing experiences to be present and take their natural course. Every feeling and every thought are permitted to be there, after all, the thoughts and feelings are there anyway. Mindfulness teaches us not to struggle with feelings or thoughts. Allowing and accepting are central concepts in mindfulness.

1630 – 1730: Goals

Mindfulness does not mean you no longer set goals or that you just live in the moment. It means that you set goals consciously.

1800 – 1900: Social Get Together | Venue: TBA

A bit of fun and get to know each other.

DAY 8: 04/10/2025 | Conference Day

0800 – 0900: Compassion

Life can be hard at times. Regardless of our best intentions, sometimes things go wrong, sometimes even very wrong. The reactions we have towards ourselves are often merciless. A negative judgment about ourselves is often an automatic response to our failure, whereas forgiveness and gentleness are nowhere to be found. It is exactly this gentleness and compassion that are of extreme importance because they have the power to transform all that negativity. The good news is that compassion can be increased through practice.

0900 – 1000: The Ego

Mindfulness leads to the understanding that you are more than just a form, more than your body, your thoughts, and emotions. You are not what you identify with. Imagine that everything you identify with falls apart (your job, your friends, your body), is there still something or someone left? The answer is yes.

1000 – 1030: Break

1030 – 1130: Integration

The preceding seven sessions explored various themes and exercises. A wise saying says, "The last meeting lasts for the rest of your life". And that is true. Mindfulness is a process that keeps developing over time. In this final session, we will reflect on what has been learned, integrating the previous themes. We will also reflect on how this knowledge and experience gained from the training can be integrated into your life.

DAY 8 Continued: 04/10/2025 | Conference Day

1130 – 1230: Your Stress Management and Mindfulness Plan

In this session, what we will do is work out a plan for yourself.

Meditation: When are you going to add it into the day? What app are you going to use?

Diet: If you are going to change something – what is it and how are you going to do it?

Assertiveness and Boundaries: Have your plan ready of how you are going to respond to those difficult people at home and work. Have you worked out your yes but? How are you going to address it?

You know your Personality: What are you going work on?

Mindfulness is about not judging but being curious as to why others may be acting in the way they are.

- Have you considered any strategies that you can deploy to avoid jumping into automatic behaviours and judging others?
- One strategy for improving compassion is journalling.
- Can you think of any others that you might apply to yourself?

Gratitude: What are you thankful for? Who have you shown gratitude to?

1230 – 1400: Lunch

Afternoon: Self-directed Activities

This afternoon you have self-directed learning activities.

- Dealing with Addiction Cravings
- Observer Meditation
