WHAT THIS EVENT IS ABOUT:

Both stress and burnout impact health care workers – this conference explores the key issues surrounding stress and burnout. It provides a Mindfulness workshop to enhance the healthcare workers' ability to manage stress and explore strategies to strengthen their emotional wellbeing and personal and professional lives.

Stress should be viewed as a process rather than a definitive diagnosis. It occurs when there is an issue between the demands placed upon us and our ability to handle them. How intensely and extensively stress affects an individual largely hinges on their perspective towards a given situation.

Burnout is a work-related stress syndrome resulting from chronic exposure to job stress. The term was introduced in the early 1970s by psychoanalyst Freudenberg and has subsequently been defined by Maslach et al. as consisting of three qualitative dimensions: emotional exhaustion, cynicism, and depersonalization, reduced professional efficacy and personal accomplishment.

Mindfulness is more than a strategy for managing difficult situations. It is a way to cultivate a more balanced relationship with oneself in relation to the realities of life. Mindfulness can better be understood as a way of being and living rather than a tactic or strategy for life.

By providing the opportunity to devote attention to the processes that underlie mindfulness and explore scientific findings related to mindfulness, this training differs from other programs and provides attendees with the tools to enhance their wellbeing.

Article: Nurses' job stress and its impact on quality of life and caring behaviours: a cross-sectional study
1230 – 1330: Defining Wellness Wellness is often confused with terms such as health, wellbeing, and happiness. While there are common elements among them, wellness is distinguished by not referring to a static state of being (i.e., being happy, in good health, or a state of wellbeing). Rather, wellness is associated with an active process of being aware and making choices that lead toward an outcome of optimal holistic health and wellbeing.
1330 – 1430: The Impact of Shiftwork on Health Shift work is associated with impaired alertness and performance due to sleep loss and circadian misalignment. How does it impact the Health Care Worker, and what are the consequences for those we care for?
1430 – 1500: Break
1500 – 1600: The Importance of Sleep Sleep plays a vital role in good health and well-being throughout your life. The way you feel while you are awake depends in part on what happens while you are sleeping. During sleep, your body works to support healthy brain function and maintain physical health.
1600 – 1700: Understanding Stress Stress should be viewed as a process rather than a definitive diagnosis. It occurs when there is an issue between the demands placed upon us and our ability to handle them. How intensely and extensively stress affects an individual largely hinges on their perspective towards a given situation. An occurrence that might induce significant stress in one person could be a minor obstacle for someone else. Let's explore stress!
1800 – 1900: Social Get Together Venue: TBA A bit of fun and get to know each other. Each night conference Facilitators and Presenters will be at the venue and would love to meet with you.

0900 – 1000: Your Belief System This session will explore how our belief system impacts our response to situations. What we think affects how we feel, which leads to how we behave. Humans are complex creatures!
1030 – 1130: Emotional Health and Suicide The rate of suicide by health professionals is much higher than the general population. In this session, we will explore the impact of emotional health and suicide and look at strategies to assist a suicidal person.
1130 – 1230: Gut Health The gut is our second brain, and there is mounting evidence to support the importance of gut health on our emotional and physical wellbeing. This session will explore the latest information on gut health.

Day Six: 02 nd April 2025 Conference Day
Self-directed Activities This morning you have self-directed learning activities that equate to three hours of CPD. You can choose to complete these activities in the time allocated, or you may choose to complete them before the commencement of the conference or after its conclusion. The online library where the activities are located is available to you a week before the conference begins and for two weeks after the conference finishes.
1230 – 1330: Mindfulness Attention and the Now The training of attention is essential in mindfulness. Mindfulness teaches us to focus the attention on what is happening in this moment, the now. Although this sounds easy, it seems that we often just do not live in the moment and instead, focus our attention on our thoughts or the content of our thoughts.
1330 – 1430: The issue with Automatic Behaviour Automatism involves a behaviour occurring outside of conscious awareness, that is, when we are not consciously aware of our own behaviour. Although it may be difficult to imagine, some researchers believe that 90% of our behaviour is carried out automatically. Automatic patterns are not limited to behaviour, like driving a car or playing the piano. Thoughts patterns or coping with setbacks or stress can also become automatic. Although in some cases automatic behaviour is very useful, it can also cause serious problems.
1500 – 1600: Judgement Judgements operate like a lens, and we see the world through the lens of our judgement. When we judge something, we're colouring reality. We're wearing a lens, we see reality through a lens of our judgement, and our beliefs shape the colour of the lens. In other words, the judgements that we make have a strong effect on how we feel.
1600 – 1700: Acceptance Acceptance plays an important role in mindfulness. Rather than trying to avoid or control an experience, mindfulness involves allowing experiences to be present and take their natural course. Every feeling and every thought is permitted to be there, after all, the thoughts and feelings are there anyway. Mindfulness teaches us not to struggle with feelings or thoughts. Allowing and accepting are central concepts in mindfulness.
1800 – 1900: Social Get Together Venue: TBA A bit of fun and get to know each other. Each night conference Facilitators and Presenters will be at the venue and would love to meet with you.

Day Seven: 03 rd April 2025 Conference Day
0800 – 0900: Goals Mindfulness does not mean you no longer set goals or that you just live in the moment. It means that you set goals consciously.
0900 – 1000: Compassion Life can be hard at times. Regardless of our best intentions, sometimes things go wrong, sometimes even very wrong. The reactions we have towards ourselves are often merciless. A negative judgement about ourselves is often an automatic response to our failure, whereas forgiveness and gentleness are nowhere to be found. It is exactly this gentleness and compassion that are of extreme importance because they have the power to transform all that negativity. The good news is that compassion can be increased through practice.
1030 – 1130: The Ego Mindfulness leads to the understanding that you are more than just a form, more than your body, your thoughts, and emotions. You are not what you identify with. Imagine that everything you identify with falls apart (your job, your friends, your body). Is there still something or someone left? The answer is yes.
1130 – 1230: Integration The preceding 7 sessions explored various themes and exercises. A wise saying says that “The last meeting lasts for the rest of your life”. And that is true. Mindfulness is a process that keeps developing over time. In this final session, we will reflect on what has been learned, integrating the previous themes with each other. We will also reflect on how this knowledge and experience gained from the training can be integrated into your life.
1230 – 1330: Lunch
Self-directed Activities This afternoon you have self-directed learning activities that equate to three hours of CPD. You can choose to complete these activities in the time allocated, or you may choose to complete them before the commencement of the conference or after its conclusion. The online library where the activities are located is available to you a week before the conference begins and for two weeks after the conference finishes.
1730 – 1830: Farewell Reception Take this opportunity to enjoy a complimentary function as the conference draws to a close and we say farewell to new friends and colleagues.
Day Eight: 04 th April 2025 Arrive Brisbane
Disembark – safe travel!

OUR PRESENTER:

Sue Walker, RN, BN, BN (ADMIN), MPH (PALCARE), MACN

Sue is the director and co-founder of the Nurses for Nurses Network. Sue is a key contributor to the online education platform Nursing CPD - a Continuing Professional Development library.

As a Registered Nurse, Sue holds Degrees in both Nursing and Health Administration, a Master's Degree in Public Health, as well as a number of certificate courses in Psychiatry of Ageing, Gerontology, Chemotherapy Administration, Training and Assessment. She is also an Accredited Mental Health First Aid Trainer, Mindfulness Practitioner, and Clinical Supervisor. Sue has extensive experience both as a clinician, educator, and senior manager. She has presented at local and international conferences on many topics including key issues such as the psychological impact of the work that Nurses do and how the work requirements to deliver healthcare impact on the health of the clinician.

Sue is passionate about making a difference to the way in which people experience the health care system. Nurses are the backbone of the healthcare system and work in difficult environments that can take advantage of their caring nature and commitment to ensuring the best possible care is delivered. Our health care system relies on Nurses to work extra shifts, longer shifts, double shifts. It relies on Nurses and Midwives willingly changing their plans to meet the needs of the organisation, to the detriment of their own personal lives and relationships.

“Healthcare should be delivered by competent, knowledgeable individuals to ensure the best possible experience for the recipient of that care. Nursing is a fabulous profession. It is the knowledge and skill of the individual Nurse that will have the greatest influence on the happiness and health outcomes of each and every client.” To continue to meet this professional and community expectation, our healthcare system needs to stop relying on Nurses and Midwives to rescue it, and Nurses and Midwives need to acknowledge their unique contribution and assert their professional needs to ensure reasonable workloads and conditions that are enjoyed by other professions
